High School Cagers Turn Back Akron's City Champions, 17 To 16

GIRD FOR SCRAP SATURDAY WITH ST. VINCENT "5"

Quakers' Win Over North Big Upset of District Tourney

HOLD UPPER HAND THROUGHOUT TILT

Need Only One More Victory to Qualify for Play In Columbus

Those Salem High school Quakers, the most surprising local basketball club to ever march down the gym, have turned the tables again. In their usual unpredictable manner, Coach Herb Brown's charges have once more pulled the unexpected against one of Ohio's leading scholastic teams.

It was Akron North's Vikings, scholastic champions of the Rubber City and loser in only one game during the regular season, who fell victims of the Quakers' form reversal last night.

Heavily favored to win in a romp, the Vikings were upset by the Quakers, 17 to 16, in a first round game of the annual north-eastern Ohio Class A scholastic basketball tournament at Good-year gym in Akron.

The victory advances the Quakers to the finals of their bracket in the district tournament, placing them only one victory away from the coveted trip to the state finals in Columbus next week.

Brown's astonishing quintet will play Akron St. Vincent at 7 p. m. Saturday for the right to move on to Columbus as one of the five teams representing the northeastern Ohio district.

St. Vincent's Green Wave qualified for the final round by winning out of Cleveland Rush-High, 24 to 21, in one of the last games at Goodyear gym last night.

The Akron tournament is divided into five brackets with four teams to a bracket. The winner in each bracket qualifies for the state finals at the Ohio State fairgrounds, Columbus, March 17, 18 and 19.

The close score of the game, which edged the Quakers' victory, held the lead from early in the second period until the finish and at one time were out in front, 15 to 3.

The Quakers pulled into the lead in the second period after (Continued on Page 9)

All's Quiet Today On Engineer Front

LISBON, March 11—"No change" was the official communique from both sides in the contested county engineer's post Thursday evening. Attorneys for Lloyd Kirk who is holding office under a supreme court mandate reiterated their decision to "sit tight" pending developments. Counsel for Robert Wheatley remained non-committal regarding future litigation. Wheatley, who holds a commission from the secretary of state appointing him to the office, is expected to file quo warranto proceedings in the supreme court this week. The commission was issued after county commissioners had declared a vacancy existed.

Tracy And Rainer Are Hailed As Year's No. 1 Film Stars

Spencer Tracy

(By Associated Press) HOLLYWOOD, March 11.—Spencer Tracy, a likeable mug from Milwaukee, and Luise Rainer, a shy Austrian brunette, were hailed today as the No. 1 stars of the 1937 film year.

Seventeen gold statuettes, the "Oscars" symbolic of outstanding achievement in the industry, were passed out last night by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. The two that counted most—for the best acting—went to Tracy and Miss Rainer.

Tracy hears in hospital Recovering at a hospital from an operation, Tracy got the news from his wife that his characterization of a Portuguese sailor in "Captain Courageous" had been rewarded. Miss Rainer was present at the academy banquet when it was announced she had won a statuette for her Chinese peasant role in "The Good Earth."

Last year she also won for her impersonation of Anna Held in "The Great Ziegfeld." Her double victory is unprecedented in the ten-year history of the Academy acting awards.

The award for the best picture of 1937, as determined by a poll of 15,000 film workers, including extras, went to Warner Brothers' "The Life of Emile Zola."

Awards for best supporting performances were given Joseph Schildkraut, the martyred Captain

Luise Rainer, awarded the Academy cup for best film performance in 1937. She also won last year. Her double victory sets new record.

Dreyfus of "Zola," and Alice Brady, the heroic mother of "In Old Chicago."

Leo McCarey's direction of "The Awful Truth" earned him the statuette annually accorded the top megaphone-wielder.

Even McCarthy Is Honored Even Charlie McCarthy, the wooden wisecracker, was remembered as stardom's notables distributed the awards in a crowded hotel dance room and 1,300 guests, who paid $25 a plate, applauded continually.

The Academy decided Edgar Bergen, Charlie's vocal master, should have a small wooden "Oscar" for his outstanding comedy creation.

W. C. Fields presented Mack Sennett, oldtime king of bathing beauty comedies, a special award for service.

Walt Disney, Mickey Mouse's poppa, received two awards—one for development of a multi-plane color camera and the other for his cartoon, "The Old Mill."

Other honors went to screen writers William A. Wellman and Robert Carson of "A Star Is Born"; Norman Reilly Raine, Heinz Herald and Geza Herczeg of "Zola"; and director Stephen Goss of "Lost Horizon."

Sound Recorder Thomas Moulton of "Hurricane"; Dance Director Hermes Pan of "Dance In Distress"; and Song Writer Harry Owens of "Sweet Lullaby."

Guffey And Pennsylvania's Democratic Committee Split

Senator To Support CIO'S Thomas P. Kennedy For Keystone State Governor Nomination

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, March 11.—Senator Joseph P. Guffey split with Pennsylvania's Democratic state committee today to support CIO's Thomas P. Kennedy for the gubernatorial nomination.

"In Pennsylvania the Democratic party cannot win without labor and labor cannot win without the Democratic party," Guffey said, in announcing his support for one of John L. Lewis' right-hand men.

The formal statement by the senator, who has been Pennsylvania's Democratic leader for years, touched off excited speculation in the politically-minded capital. This centered chiefly on Lewis' growing political importance and potential power in the 1940 party conventions and elections.

Pennsylvania is second only to New York in the number of delegates it sends to the Democratic national convention.

Guffey has been a leading supporter of President Roosevelt and his policies. Kennedy, now lieutenant governor in the first Democratic administration Pennsylvania has had in 40 years, is secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America.

David Lawrence, secretary of the commonwealth and for many years Guffey's partner in Pennsylvania politics, has announced his support for Charles A. Jones, Pittsburgh lawyer.

Aligned with Lawrence are the state committee, Gov. George H. Earle, a candidate for the U. S. senate, and Matthew McCloskey, a Philadelphia leader.

Stouffer Debates Relief Questions

LISBON, March 11.—Three questions bearing on the county's participation in relief activities were taken under advisement Thursday afternoon by Prosecutor Karl Stouffer following receipt of a letter from the county commissioners requesting information on the legal angles.

Uncertainty developing from the state legislature's failure to pass relief legislation before adjournment prompted the inquiries. The commissioners stated they had set up certain offices in anticipation of legislative action which had not materialized.

The first query concerned the relief clearing house in charge of John Orr of Wellsville. Others concerned the WPA certifying officer who is paid from county funds, and the administration of surplus commodities in the county.

The commissioners asked if they were within their rights in spending state allocated funds in the administration of the offices.

WHITNEY GIVEN STAY IN COURT

Inquiry Broadens In Affairs of Former Exchange Chief

(By Associated Press) NEW YORK, March 11.—The immediate arrest of Richard Whitney, five times president of the New York stock exchange, on a new charge of grand larceny was ordered today by State Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Investigation into the tangled financial affairs of Richard Whitney, former president of the New York stock exchange, centered today on the pending federal grand jury probe and State Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr.'s broad inquiry.

Whitney, through his counsel, Charles H. Tuttle, Republican leader, asked and obtained a stay until Monday of his arraignment in a first degree grand larceny indictment obtained in record time yesterday by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey. He is accused of taking $105,000 from a family trust fund.

The heavy-set, grave Whitney, five times president of the stock exchange and Wall Street leader through the critical years of the depression, was charged with appropriating securities of "an aggregate value of about $105,000" for personal loans, from a fund established by his father-in-law, the late George R. Sheldon, leaving in the fund only a single share of Bethlehem Steel company stock with a market value of $55.

While Whitney silently went through the police routine of being booked and fingerprinted, and posted bail, inquiries into the collapse of Richard Whitney and company went ahead on five other fronts, with at least two of them holding a possibility of additional criminal action.

These two were in charge of Gregory F. Noonan, assistant United States attorney, and Ambrose V. McCall, the state attorney general's assistant.

In addition, the stock exchange, the securities and exchange commission and Irwin Kurtz, referee in bankruptcy, were looking into the rapidly-expanding ramifications of the case.

HIGH DEBATERS WIN WAY INTO STATE FINALS

Defeat St. Clairsville In Contest At Wooster College

MARCH 18-19 SET FOR TITLE EVENT

Quakers to Compete With Three Others For Ohio Crown

A Salem High school debate team, for the first time since the school joined the Ohio High School Speech league in 1927, will go to Columbus to compete in the finals for Ohio's highest scholastic forensic honors.

The Salem debaters won this right at Wooster college Thursday afternoon when they won over St. Clairsville in a close decision. The match pitted Miss Constance Clarke and Miss Elsie Hunter, local negative speakers, against two affirmative debaters from the Belmont county High school.

Prof. Emerson Miller, head of the public speaking department at Wooster college, the judge, gave the decision to Salem.

Personnel of Squad The personnel of the Salem High school debate squad, coached by J. C. Guiler, includes Miss Clarke, Miss Hunter and Lionel Difford. The last two named are seniors while Miss Clarke is a junior. Guiler has been a teacher at the High school and debate coach for 11 years.

The debaters already have earned a plaque for winning the district championship and are also eligible for one of the silver loving cups which goes to the semi-finalists. Three other schools in the state will go to the debate finals, which will be held in Columbus Friday and Saturday, March 18 and 19.

Final Match Saturday Two teams will be eliminated next Friday afternoon, with the championship school being crowned on Saturday.

Out of the 115 Ohio schools which started in the district eliminations several weeks ago, only four remained today including Salem. The names of the three other schools have not yet been announced.

RALLY IS HELD BY MOTOR CLUB Senator Frank Whittemore, President of State Association, Speaks at Lisbon

LISBON, March 11.—State Senator Frank Whittemore, president of the State Automobile association, was the principal speaker at a committee dinner meeting held by the Columbiana County Motor club at 6:30 p. m. Thursday in the Masonic lodge rooms. Sixty persons attended.

Other speakers introduced by Atty. Lynn Riddle of Lisbon, who served as toastmaster, were John L. Young of Cleveland, president of the Cleveland Automobile club and secretary of the national association, and E. D. McNelly, of Washington, national field secretary of the American Automobile association.

The latter was presented with a pen and pencil set by the Columbiana County Motor club for the assistance he gave in aiding the club's membership drive.

J. Howard Sinclair of Hanoverton, president of the club, spoke briefly and announced that the club's membership campaign will continue to April 1.

John Coleman, East Liverpool municipal court clerk, sang several selections at last night's meeting.

Catholic Club Play Cast Is Announced St. Paul's Catholic club today announced the cast for its three act farce, "Blarney Street," which will be presented on the evening of March 17, St. Patrick's day, in the memorial building, and again at a matinee on Sunday, March 20.

The cast follows: Pat Breen, Charles Yeager; Maggie Breen, his wife, Mary Finnegan; Rosie Breen, their daughter, Mary Haldeman; Mike Flanagan, Dick Cavanaugh; Bridget Flanagan, his wife, Rose Marie Sullivan; Dan Flanagan, their son, Clarence Walker; Nora O'Leary, Hannah Hagan; Levi Levisky, Mahlon Hippie; a bill collector, Pete Fain; a milkman, Joe Belan.

The play is a fast moving farce, dealing with the bickering that goes on between two estranged Irish families who live side by side in the same house.

Plans are under consideration to repeat the play on Sunday evening for the adults, if there is sufficient demand although adults may attend the matinee if they desire.

Warns Germany To Keep "Hands Off" In Voting

(By Associated Press) LONDON, March 11.—Britain today gave a mild carefully phrased warning to Germany against military interference in Austria's Sunday plebiscite on independence.

Official British sources said reports had been received of "certain movements of troops in Bavaria" and that Britain had expressed to Germany the hope that the purpose of such movements was to preserve order on the Austro-German frontier.

Officials declined to say specifically to whom this view was expressed, but it was believed that it had been presented unmistakably to Joachim Von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, by Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax and Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain.

Von Ribbentrop, on whose two-day visit to London hopes of better Anglo-German understanding had been based, ended his round of functions here with such understanding further off than ever and Europe's peace endangered.

Watchful detachments of mounted and foot police stood by as the top-hatted Ribbentrop drove through the gates of Buckingham palace in a swastika beflagged motor car for his farewell audience with King George. It was this farewell—Von Ribbentrop is the retiring Nazi ambassador to London—that was the ostensible reason for his visit.

There were no repetition of yesterday's hostile demonstrations against the German outside the foreign office, when crowds yelled, "Get out Ribbentrop!"

HITLER BOOSTS BORDER TROOPS Germany Denies, However, Attempts to Intimidate Austrians

BERLIN, March 11.—The strengthening of German army forces on the Austrian frontier was confirmed today by sources close to the government.

It was vigorously denied, however, that this represented an attempt to intimidate Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg of Austria, whose call for a plebiscite on independence Sunday has again thrown central Europe into political turmoil.

It became apparent here that any restraint Berlin may have imposed hitherto on Austrian Nazis has been removed.

If there be bloodshed in Austria over the national vote on Austrian independence Sunday, Nazi spokesmen said, it will be Chancellor Schuschnigg's fault.

It is in Schuschnigg's hands, Nazis said to determine whether Austria shall be "made over" peacefully, or whether blood shall be shed to accomplish it.

At the same time, they denied there was any intention by the Reich to take military action or otherwise use force in Austria.

Austrian Nazis will not participate in the vote by which Schuschnigg hopes to prove a majority of his nation is against Nazism and union with Germany. It was made clear here, unless terms of the election are changed drastically before Sunday.

Neither will the Nazis recognize the result of the election (Austrian predictions are for an 80 per cent majority for Schuschnigg).

The political atmosphere in Berlin was tense into the early hours of the morning, and late light at the chancellery indicated Fuehrer Hitler was consulting with his advisors.

Rome and Berlin were in constant contact yesterday, leading to the reports Premier Mussolini would give Schuschnigg no help as he made ready to do in 1934 by sending troops to the Austrian border after Chancellor Dollfuss was assassinated.

TWO ARE SLAIN IN FIGHTING ON EVE OF BALLOT

Disorders Are Spreading Throughout Austrian Provinces

MOBILIZATION OF TROOPS ORDERED

Schuschnigg Hears Hint He'll Meet Fate of Dollfuss

BULLETIN (By Associated Press)

LONDON, March 11.—Austrian quarters received reports tonight that Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg had resigned. They expressed belief that the reports were true.

At the same time, in Vienna, came the announcement that the plebiscite on Austria's independence had been postponed. No date was set. The action followed reports Germany and Austrian Nazis had exerted powerful pressure to avert the referendum.

Schuschnigg was reported to have been succeeded by Dr. Otto Ender, elderly lawyer and legislator, a moderate anti-Nazi.

VIENNA, March 11.—One Nazi and one Fatherland Front member died today, victims of Austria's bitter political strife, which increased in intensity as Sunday's independence plebiscite neared.

The Nazis stabbed last night in a minor Nazi-Fatherland Front affray in Florisort, a workers' suburb of Vienna, succumbed this morning.

Hans Lialisch, 25-year-old teacher and supporter of Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg died of injuries received last week in a political attack at his school.

Disorders spread through the Austrian provinces, while in Vienna the war ministry ordered mobilization of 100,000 troops of the reserve, called 30,000 national guardsmen to immediate duty and strengthened the bodyguard around Chancellor Schuschnigg because of Nazi threats against his life.

All policemen, regular soldiers and recruits were instructed to remain in barracks without the usual daily one to two-hour leave.

Schuschnigg's guard was increased after parading Nazis cried "Schuschnigg, watch out, for you will meet the fate of Dollfuss" (the assassinated chancellor).

An ominous hint, but without official confirmation, came from a person close to the Nazi endorsed minister of interior, Arthur Seyss-Inquart, friend of Germany's Hitler, who approved him for the post.

"Schuschnigg's position is shaky," this person said. "Seyss-Inquart may soon be his successor."

It appeared likely Nazis would refrain from voting Sunday when the people will be asked to approve Schuschnigg's determination to fight for Austrian independence as against the Nazi's demands for union with Germany.

Asked whether the intensive precautions meant martial law was being declared, army circles answered:

"It is a matter only of a technical name."

There were no official figures on the total number of troops, police and reserves on protective duty but a likely figure is 500,000.

In downtown Vienna, Fatherland Front demonstrations grew louder at noon. Schuschnigg's new private army, the Sturm korps, was issued arms.

In Linz, a Nazi stronghold, three shots were fired from a building at Nazis starting a march toward the suburb of Linz.

Some of the Nazis rushed into the building, declaring members of the anti-Nazi Sturmkorps had fired the shots. Three were injured in the resulting fight.

Eight others were less seriously injured in a second Linz street fight, when Nazis and supporters of Schuschnigg clashed at the Danube bridge. Police finally stopped both fights.

Nazi quarters said they would protest to the supreme court after Sunday's plebiscite seeking to have the results declared void on constitutional grounds.

COLD CHILLS

Railroads in the United States need three things, which are, in the order of their importance: (1) More business, (2) Lower costs and (3) higher efficiency. Railroads cannot get more business until there is more business to get. They cannot get lower costs until costs are lower. They cannot get higher efficiency without extensive reorganization.

Railroads cannot make business better, nor can they deflate the prices of things they use. They cannot even control their destiny by arbitrary reorganization, because the ramifications of the railroad industry affect too many other interests. For instance, when congress set up the office of transportation coordinator in 1933 for greater railroad efficiency, results were forestalled at the outset by a requirement that the number of rail employees be not reduced.

Being stymied, railroads try to make the best of their situation, therefore, by seeking higher rates. They are forced to do this despite the probability it will not solve their problem. It is about the only thing left for them to do to block the threat of public ownership which hangs over them constantly.

It's a threat which gives taxpayers cold chills, because they can foresee that public ownership wouldn't settle a thing about railroads, except the certainty that thereafter their financial worries would be the taxpayers' worries, too.

ROPE

Seattle's too remote to permit jumping at conclusions about the way it voted Tuesday, but one thing's plain, at least.

Seattle's not different from other cities in the United States. That's an interesting thing to know. There was a common impression that Seattle was unique.

They—meaning persons who described Seattle—said a labor union political boss, Dave Beck, had it sewed up like a baseball. They said Mayor John F. Dore, Beck's man, ran the city and the unions from the same office. They said Seattle was an example of heavy fisted labor union rule.

They further said they didn't know where this was going to stop, short of disaster. They saw all kinds of strange things happening, or about to happen, in Seattle. But they overlooked the really important thing which still can happen in the United States.

When a political boss, no matter what he calls himself—Democrat, Republican or labor unionist—gets so much rope he thinks he can have all the rope in the world if he wants it, he hangs himself. To be specific, he forces unorganized voters to gang up on him and his crowd.

Arthur B. Langlie, a middle of the road candidate, was elected mayor of Seattle last Tuesday. Lieut. Gov. Meyers, with left wing labor support, was beaten. Mayor Dore, with right wing labor support, was eliminated in the primary.

From this distance, it looks as though Seattle would stand a certain amount of bossing, as most cities will, then would kick out the bosses.

LET'S FIGHT FOR WHAT?

There is unscrupulous propaganda being foisted on Americans in an attempt to make them transfer to Great Britain the class hatreds phony liberalism has been fomenting in the United States.

This is the way it works: Because a conservative government in Great Britain has taken steps to appease fascist governments rather than precipitate war by clashing with them, it's argued that conservatism and fascism are two sides of the same thing.

The purpose is to make it appear that the little people of the world must stand together in common defense of liberty because the big people are getting ready to snatch it away from them. It's the old familiar whop of the class war, with a fascist scream at the beginning.

To case the minds of those who may have taken this stuff seriously and are ready to start shedding blood in the notion the Battle of Armageddon is

DEMANDS GROW FOR CONGRESSIONAL PROBE OF TVA

WASHINGTON, March 11—Demands for an exhaustive congressional investigation of the Tennessee Valley Authority increased today coincident with President Roosevelt's showdown conference with the authority's three squabbling directors.

Several Democratic and Republican senators expressed the belief that congress should make its own inquiry regardless of the outcome of Mr. Roosevelt's personal investigation.

Chairman Arthur E. Morgan and his opponents, Directors David E. Lilienthal and Harcourt A. Morgan, were asked to meet the President today.

The President called for fact-based opinions—to support charges the men have made against each other since their three-year-old differences developed into a public quarrel two weeks ago.

Mr. Roosevelt was expected to ask Chairman Morgan the basis of his assertion that congress should investigate the TVA in the interest of "decency" in government.

just around the corner because British Tories have turned fascist, the following quotation from Prime Minister Chamberlain's latest speech in defense of his policy is offered for what it's worth:

"I have no deal with a world in which dictators exist. I have no bias in favor of Nazism, fascism or bolshevism, because all of them seem to me to be inconsistent with what has become to me the root of my political creed—individual liberty. For the preservation of democracy, which means preservation of our liberty, I would fight myself and I believe the people of this country would fight."

Not to destroy dictatorships, mind you, nor to whop up the class war, but to preserve individual liberty. Mr. Chamberlain can't repeat that too often.

THE STARS SAY:

For Saturday, March 12

A rather significant day, with much materializing in the way of relieving old congestions to make way for new initiative and aggressiveness in putting over new projects, is forecast. The great danger of this is found in a tendency to tackle these new ventures with recklessness or impulsiveness. Try to meet hostility and opposition by calm methods and well-developed plans. There may be gratification in the private, social, domestic and romantic relations.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a very lively and constructive year, with the breaking up of old obstructions and stagnations. Definite stabilization of the affairs should attend the launching of major new projects, but without contention, disputes and rash or impetuous ways and means. Remain calm, placate enmity and count on friends. There may be much activity and pleasure in personal relations.

A child born on this day may be enterprising, aggressive, practical and constructive, fond of hard work and steadfast but inclined to be impulsive, ardent and tempestuous, although having a really friendly and kindly nature.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland, New York City.

DIABETES SYMPTOMS

Recently I told you about diabetes, pointing out that the disease is not new but has been known to mankind for centuries. Today I want to tell you about the symptoms or signs of this disorder.

There are many symptoms suggestive of diabetes. If several of them are present suspicion should be aroused. The disease is definitely diagnosed by testing the blood and urine for sugar. But this, of course, is a chemical test and requires skill.

Excessive thirst is one of the most prominent symptoms of diabetes. The doctor, always looking for big words, calls this "polydipsia." The victim drinks water frequently and in large quantities during the day. Even at night he will awaken and take a drink. This abnormal thirst is an indication of an increase in the amount of sugar in the blood.

"Polyuria," another symptom, means the excessive passing of urine. This differs from the normal discharge mainly in that it contains sugar. In advanced cases of diabetes, chemical tests show that acetone and diacetic acid may be present. These names mean little to most of us, but when applied to substances which ought not to be present, they assist the doctor in his decision about the nature of the ailment.

Another Symptom

Another symptom of diabetes is excessive consumption of food. The technical name for this is "polyphagia." Strange as it may seem, a diabetic loses weight in spite of his large eating. The body must have energy, but in diabetes the sugar consumed does not supply the energy, as it does for us who are normal.

In addition to the progressive loss of weight, the victim complains of great weakness. He has no energy, no desire to do things that require strength or endurance. He tires quickly and complains of fa-

Boils and carbuncles are other rather common signs of diabetes. They appear because the diabetic has lowered resistance to infection. Eczema and other inflammations of the skin may appear, although they are less likely signs of the disease. Severe itching of the skin is present in many cases.

In elderly persons, cataract and failing vision are signs of diabetes that cannot be disregarded. Hardening of the blood vessels with gangrene, death of tissues, is a complication frequently met in elderly diabetic patients. It requires the very best of attention.

SACRAMENTO, Calif., March 11.—Tom Mooney's dramatic fight before the state assembly to win a legislative pardon failed today.

A unique bill to free Mooney from San Quentin prison, where he is serving a life term for the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness day bombing which killed 10 and injured 40 people, met the same fate as every other attempt in his 21-year fight for vindication.

After hearing Mooney himself repeat his oft-told story that he was "framed," the assembly voted 39 to 35 to free him but that was two votes short of the necessary majority of 80 members. Since two assemblymen have died there actually are only 78 members but the speakers ruled 41 was necessary for a majority.

Assemblyman Ellis E. Patterson announced he would bring the measure up for reconsideration today when all members were expected to be present. Opponents predicted he would fail.

Does YOUR Child Live and Play Alone?

Slow in school and shunned in play. Nervous and irritable and tired . . . denied even the companionship of books, because they "hurt his eyes" . . . His is the tragedy of childhood that too often passes unnoticed . . . the barrier that poor eyesight raises.

Defective eyesight in children can be remedied, often completely cured, by the attention of a competent optometrist and the aid of properly prescribed glasses.

F. D. R. OUTLINES RESOURCE PLAN

Recommends Outlays On Federal, Non-Federal Projects

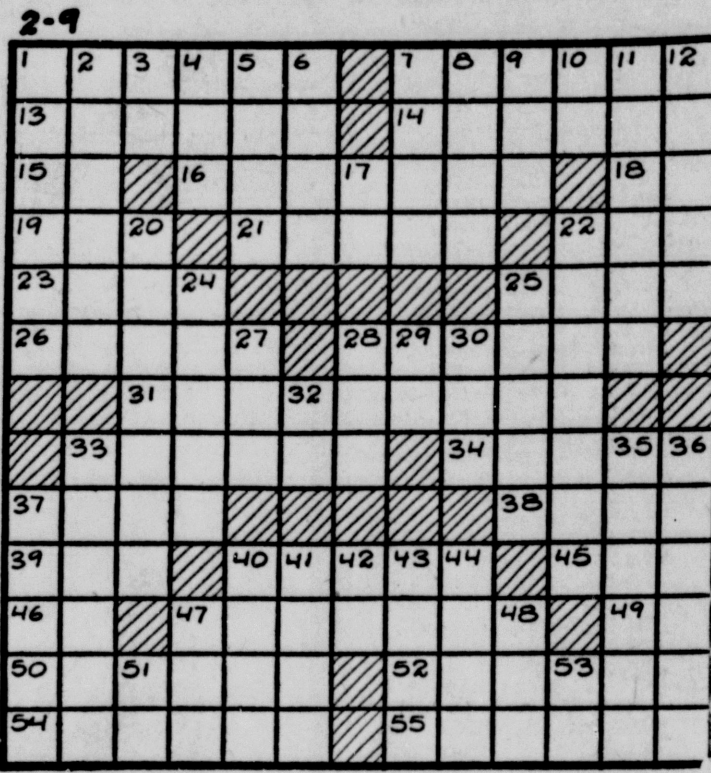

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, March 11.—Total outlays of $2,111,091,000 on federal and non-federal projects were recommended by the national resources committee in a report sent to congress by President Roosevelt.
The President, in his letter of transmittal, described the report as a "comprehensive national plan for the conservation and development of our water resources."
The report recommended use of $891,091,000 on primarily federal projects and $1,220,000,000 on non-federal developments in which local communities would share in the cost.

Suggests Careful Study
"I recommend careful study of these documents by the congress," he said, "because they present a frame of reference for legislative programs affecting water conservation, and because they illustrate an approach to the systematic husbandry of our natural resources on a democratic, regional basis."
The President told the congress the report was in accordance with his message of August 13, 1937, when he vetoed a senate resolution authorizing the drafting by army engineers of a broad flood control plan. In that veto he said the "local and regional basis" of planning was ignored.
Mr. Roosevelt said the proposals recommended by the resources committee were based upon findings of 45 joint state-federal basin committees composed of more than 500 local state and federal officials.
"The proposals in the report," he said, "provide a guide for authorizations of surveys and construction of irrigation, flood control, navigation, rural water supply, wild life conservation, beach erosion con-

DAVEY DENIES "CUT" ON SALES

Asserts He'd have Thrown Bradley Out On His Neck

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, March 11.—Gov. Martin L. Davey testified today he would have thrown Lee Bradley "out on his neck" if the Cleveland asphalt salesman had ever suggested that General Motors pay him (Bradley) a 10 to 35 per cent commission on sales of General Motors equipment to the state.
Davey returned to the witness chair in municipal court for the second day of a hearing to determine whether Bradley, recent witness before the senate investigating committee, should be bound over to the grand jury on the governor's charge of perjury against him.
Quizzed on New York Parley
Neil W. McGill, assistant county prosecutor, immediately questioned him concerning a meeting in New York in 1934 attended by the governor, Bradley and L. L. Tremper, regional manager of General Motors Truck Corp. Davey already has denied that a contribution to his campaign was mentioned at the meeting.
McGill asked if there was any conversation concerning a 10 to 35 per cent commission to be paid by General Motors to Bradley for sales to the state.
"If he ever mentioned anything like that to me," Davey said, "I'd have thrown him out on his neck."
"Was Poulson's name mentioned at that meeting?" McGill asked, referring to Francis W. Poulson, chairman of the Democratic state executive committee.
Davey said he "never talked with him (Bradley) and Tremper about any campaign contributions."
"Was he ever sent out for contributions in 1934?" McGill asked.
"He never produced anything and it was never under discussion," Davey replied.
The governor said Bradley was hired by the Davey Tree Expert Co., of which Davey is president, to solicit tree-trimming contract in the south and west in 1934.

Hits Corruption

FRANKLIN, March 11—Senate Republican Leader Verner E. Metcalf of Marietta said in a speech before the Men's club here last night that "if the dishonesty and corruption in Ohio are stopped and the guilty punished, we will have reduced taxes."

Metcalf, a probable candidate for the Republican nomination for attorney general, was a member of the senate investigating committee which reported it found evidence of graft in some departments of state government.

Theater Attractions

Walter Huston, star of "Of Human Hearts" at the State tonight and Saturday.

Of Human Hearts," dramatic story of an itinerant preacher of Lincoln's day, is the new vehicle which brings Walter Huston to the screen for the first time since his success in "Dodsworth."

The new picture, based on the story, "Benefits Forged," by Honor Morrow, and in which James Stewart, Beulah Bondi and many notable stage and character players appear, shows at the State theatre tonight and Saturday.

The story deals with a circuit-riding preacher, his wife, and their son, who grows up to be a famous surgeon, forgets his family ties, and whose feet are finally turned on the right path by Abraham Lincoln. Much of the action occurs in a backwoods Ohio village. Clarence Brown, director of "Conquest" and "The Wilderness" directed.

Outstanding Episodes

Much of the picture was made in a location in a village built in Lake Arrowhead, California. Dramatic highlights include a serious fight between father and son after a quarrel in the wilderness, the son's departure for Baltimore and medical school, the Lincoln episode, and the final reunion with his mother and sweetheart. Delicate human interest episodes, many deft comedy moments, and the play, which in its general feeling is in the tradition of "The Wilderness," though the story and theme are totally different. The picture brings to the screen for the first time Letitia Joy Gilbert, daughter of John Gilbert, playing Ann Rutherford as a child, and also brings to pictures for the first time Charles Coburn, famous New York stage actor and creator of "Old Bill" in "The Better Ole," who plays the village doctor. Others in prominent roles include Kibbee, Gene Lockhart, Arthur Hays Sulzberg, Clem Bevans, Charley Chaplin, Gene Reynolds, Sterling Holloway, Charles Peck, Robert Wade, Leona Roberts, Minor Watson and John Carradine. Chosen after a long search, to portray Lincoln at the close of the Civil War.

At The Grand
At the Grand tonight and Saturday is a new Buck Jones western picture, "Sudden Bill Dorn" with Noel Francis and Evelyn Brent. Buck Jones is cast as "Sudden Bill Dorn," the man who determines to kill his erstwhile friend, Mike Bundy, when he learns that he has defrauded his neighbors. He pursues Bundy to Bordertown.

BEAVER FALLS
COMBATS FIRE

Flames reduce Downtown
Store To Ashes; Two
Firemen Injured

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., March 11—Raging flames that crumbled the G. C. Murphy Co. store in the heart of the business district last night, causing $200,000 damage, had been reduced to smoldering ashes early this morning.

A three-hour battle by firemen summoned from all surrounding towns and boroughs confined the fire to the one building, although nearby structures along Seventh ave. and Eleventh st. were damaged by smoke, water and the intense heat.

Two firemen were injured, and five others narrowly escaped disaster when their truck lost a wheel and crashed into a curb.

The injured are Firemen William B. Newell, 56, of Beaver Falls, and John Corcoran, 24, of Patterson township. Newell was treated at the scene for an arm injury, and Corcoran was taken to Providence hospital, Rochester, suffering a head injury.

Acting Fire Chief Charles Cooper estimated that the fire caused $150,000 damage to the building and $50,000 to merchandise in the Murphy store.

He said the flames apparently were caused by an explosion in the boiler room in the basement.

QUAKERS UPSET NORTH IN N.E.O. TOURNEY, 17-16

Salem Cagers Eliminate Akron City Champs From Northeastern Ohio Meet

Tight Defense Enables Quakers To Hold North To Three Points In Three Periods; Vikings' Rally In Fourth Quarter Falls Short

both teams had scored only two points in the first quarter. Oleksa made a field goal for Salem and Karbowicz did likewise for North in the opening period.

North was held scoreless in the second quarter for the first time of the season while the Quakers rang up five points to enjoy a 7 to 2 advantage at halftime. A free throw by Dickey and field goals by Everhart and Lutsch constituted the Salem scoring in the second frame.

In the third period the Quakers boosted their lead by scoring seven points to North's one. Oleksa connected for two field goals, Lutsch made one fielder and Dickey converted a free throw in the third frame which ended with the Red and Black lads out in front, 14 to 2.

North staged a strong rally in the final quarter, but the belated spurt fell short of catching the front-running Quakers. The Vikings outscored the Red and Black lads, 13 points to three, in the fourth stanza and were closing in fast when the gun sounded.

Salem's three points in the last frame were all made on free throws. Dickey hooped two of these and Oleksa the other.

The Quaker triumph over North gave them the honor of eliminating Akron's city champion from district tournament play for the second year in succession.

Last year, the Red and Black quintet put the skids under Akron West's Cowboys, who were then titleholders in the Rubber City.

Starting as it was, the Quakers' win over North was well-earned and not at all a "fluke" in any sense of the word.

Brown's charges played strictly a defensive game and for three quarters had North's fast-breaking offense tied in knots. Although the Vikings had a small measure of tough luck in shooting, they were not getting their usual number of unmissed tosses at the basket.

The Quakers' defensive performance was the best of the season and without doubt largely responsible for their upset victory. The entire first string team played steady ball, but standing head and shoulders above his mates, defensively, was little Jim Dickey, who displayed more class than he has at any other time during his career.

Scrapping for the ball every minute and sticking to his opponent like a leech, Dickey came up with the ball numerous times in tight spots and dragged in a good share of the rebounds despite his small stature.

Exceptional rebounding played a big part in the Quakers' defensive display. During the first three quarters, the Red and Black lads controlled the ball the greater part of the time, mainly because they were taking the leather off the backboard every time a shot was missed.

Max Lutsch and Bill Schaeffer also contributed heavily to the Quakers' strength in defensive rebounding.

The Quakers' offense performance, sparked by Ollie Oleksa, Gilbert Everhart and Lutsch, was marked by considerable mid-court ball-handling and passing, which North did not attempt to break up until the final quarter.

Rather than attempting to smash through North's strong-limbed zone defense, the Quakers worked the ball around mid-court and down the sides of the floor, shooting only when an excellent opportunity presented itself.

North permitted the Quakers to toy with its defense until the final frame when the Vikings moved to the front line of their zone out to mid-court and began "tying-up" the Salem ball-handling.

Had North changed its defensive tactics earlier in the game, the outcome of the contest might have been different. For three quarters they used only two players in the front line of their zone and did not attempt to cover the Red and Black lads in mid-floor. In the fourth period they moved three players into their front line and went after the Quakers in mid-court.

Brown changed his offensive style for the contest and the move seemed to benefit the Quakers. Instead of using Max Lutsch and Bill Schaeffer at the pivot posts, he moved both players into the corners to keep them more useful in passing down the sides of the court.

Notable in the new offensive was the fact that it permitted Oleksa and Everhart to break more frequently down the center of the court and either shoot from in front of the hoop or pass to the side if they were covered when coming in close to the basket.

Neither team displayed exceptional shooting accuracy. The Quakers missed more than 20 shots in the first half, while what few shots North received during the first three periods either went wild or rolled around the hoop and dropped outside.

North's shooting, however, improved in the fourth stanza when the Vikings missed only three of nine shots at the basket.

Foul shooting of both teams was also below average. The Quakers connected on five of 11 free throws, while North dropped in two out of 10 charity tosses.

BAER TO FACE FARR TONIGHT

Tommy Favorite to Win Over Former Heavyweight Champ

NEW YORK, March 11.—Max Baer and Tommy Farr pop out of the files of the "ho, hum" department and tangle for 15 rounds or less in Madison Square Garden's ring tonight.

Tommy is a 7 to 5 favorite to repeat his 1937 London victory over the playboy "papa," but the real heroes of the affair undoubtedly will be those unsuspecting members of the fistful faithful who sit and watch the thing. Promoter Mike Jacobs figures some 17,000 cash customers will contribute to the gross gate of $75,000—but he'll settle for less.

Max, you remember, used to be the world heavyweight champion. Farr is the British empire titleholder.

Since coming to this country several months ago, Tommy's only victory has been for his pocketbook. He collected $60,000 for losing a 15-round decision to Joe Louis, and cut himself another neat piece of change for finishing on the short end against James Braddock.

There's talk that the winner of tonight's go will get a crack at Louis or Schmeling.

HENRICH WINS REGULAR POST

Massillon Youth to Play Right Field for N. Y. Yanks This Year

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 11.—A new outfield alignment for the New York Yankees with Tommy Henrich in right field and George Selkirk in left flanking Joe Dimaggio is planned by Manager Joe McCarthy. Myril Hoag will play center until Dimaggio signs his contract.

CLEARWATER, FLA.—One of those Mungo-Gomez batting bets is in the making. The Brooklyn Dodgers' fireball ace has made 9 hits in 12 trips to the plate in intrasquad games and is batting .750. He's just about in the mood to make another of those long-odd bets with Gomez that he will out-hit the Yankee hurler by 100 points.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—The biggest man in the St. Louis Cardinals' training camp, Trainer Doc Weaver, who currently is caring for minor complaints of Terry Moore, Bob Weiland, Dizzy Dean, Johnny Hopp, Ray Benge, Joe Medwick, Mickey Owen and Sammy Baugh. Most of them have some muscles, but Dizzy—different as usual—has a cold.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—It was Gabby Street's boast today that none of the pitchers and catchers working out with the St. Louis Browns has complained of a sore throwing arm. "By the time we head north with the Cubs, in April, I'll stack these boys against the lot for being in the best condition," Old Sarge drawled.

LAKEVIEW, Fla.—The Detroit Tigers always knew Rudy York could hit but learned only recently of his ability on the bases. One of his feats in an intrasquad game was to work a double steal with Mark Christman, the recruit from Beaumont, Tex., who hopes to fill the third base vacancy created by a deal that sent Marvin Owen to the Chicago White Sox.

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif.—Arky Vaughan, holdout shortstop of the Pittsburgh Pirates, is expected by Sunday to confer with President Bill Benswanger, infielder Lee Handley and his bride arrived yesterday. The second squad will not hold its first workout until Sunday.

BRADENTON, Fla.—Manager Casey Stengel will send Frank Gahler and Johnny Lanning to the mound in today's first game of the season between the Regulars and Yankees, a meeting welcomed by the players who have been working for two weeks. Lou Fette and Danny MacFayden will be the opposing hurlers in the second intrasquad game Saturday.

SARASOTA, Fla.—Dick Midkiff, a graduate of the University of Texas, has made a fine impression on Manager Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox. He had the Sox sluggers popping up and hitting into the dirt when he took his turn on the mound in batting practice yesterday.

Players From Ohio Leagues Dominate All-State Quints

Kelker of Western Reserve Is Only Non-Conference Player To Make First String Team

BY FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, March 11.—Reflecting the sterling play of the 20 team Ohio conference, and the impotency of the Ohio members of the Buckeye against the assaults of Marshall's "Thundering Herd," players from the former circuit dominated today the 1938 all-Ohio basketball squad selected for the associated Press by the state's coaches, referees and sports writers.

With players from every school in Ohio eligible for berths on the big team, only three stars from outside the conferences were able to break into the first 15. Three Buckeye loop members made the grade, while nine represented Ohio conference colleges.

The first team is the same as the Ohio conference quintet with the exception of the center post, "Doc" Kelker of unattached Western Reserve outsting Werner of Wittenberg from that spot.

Nick Frascella of Wooster and Chuckovits of Toledo had practically no opposition for the forward berths, while Weiss of Case and Mills of Mount Union romped off with the guard positions.

The big surprise among the second stringers pitched Robert Games of little Alfred Holbrook college into one of the forward jobs, alongside "Parson Paul" Weaver of Capital and ahead of such stars as Lelich of Ohio University and Carroll of Xavier. Games, captain of the Holbrook club, scored 311 points in 18 games this year, an average of 17.2 per tilt. The Holbrook club averaged but 39 in winning 10 of 18, the stellar captain getting more than half the total.

George Ring of Miami and Sullivan of Kent State won the second team guard posts, while the second string center job went to Werner of Wittenberg.

No coach could ask more talent than that wrapped up in the first five. The forwards, the greatest scoring machines the state has ever known, contributed a total of almost 800 points this season. Kelker, another high scorer, adds height, aggressiveness and defensive skill, while the guards boast uncanny scoring eyes.

Third Team
Forwards: Lelich of Ohio university and Carroll of Xavier. Center: Weaver of Mount Union. Guards: Malokas of Ohio university and Bishop of Bowling Green.

Honorable Mention
Forwards: Shannon of Wittenberg, Henschman of Capital, Henderson of Wooster, Iaff of Cincinnati, Rinta of Ohio U., Whiting of Marietta, Pinyoun of Kent State, Spallino of John Carroll, Blair of Western Reserve, Reiser of Ohio Wesleyan, Lucas of Wilmington.

Centers: Nesha of Marietta, Zechman of Bowling Green, Tsalt-off of Akron, Winklesjohn of Dayton, Cromer of Miami, Swihart of Toledo, Davidson of Baldwin-Wallace.

Guards: B. and W. Cope of Mount Union, Rankin of Wittenberg, Tate of Marietta, Rohr of Ohio Wesleyan, Alvarez of Toledo, Falke of Miami, Kamp of Cincinnati, Dykstra of Wittenberg, Cordery of Wilmington, Donovan of Xavier, Snook of Rio Grande, Varce of Heidelberg, Reinhold of Denison, Hupp of Muskingum.

AWARD GIANTS PRIZE ROOKIE

Bill Nowak Told to Head For Jersey Club and Stay There

NEW ORLEANS, March 11.—That 19-year-old rookie second baseman, Bill Nowak, resumed his commuting today between the New York Giants and the Cleveland Indians.

But this time he had a little of official advice on where to get off the train and where to hang up his hat.

Stepping into the Giants-Indians terrific bloodless battle over the young gentleman from Detroit, Judge William Bramham, minor league czar, told Nowak in a telegram last night to haul himself off to the Jersey City club, a Giants' farm.

"And if anyone tries to stop you from reporting," said the judge, "you are to let me know."

So Nowak, who probably has covered more ground this week than any other rookie in the big league camps, took a train for Baton Rouge, La., where the literary William Terry, Giants manager, was waiting with his baseball team.

Last Monday Nowak was training with Terry and the other Giants. He disappeared in the dark of the night and next day was stopping grounders with the Indians in their training camp here, about 100 miles from Baton Rouge.

Mr. Terry let out a roar that was heard by Judge Bramham. He claimed he had signed Nowak to a Jersey City contract after learning a Springfield, O., scout to which a Cleveland scout had signed the 19-year-old had not been recorded with the judge. Springfield, in the Mid-Atlantic league, is an Indian farm.

As a clincher, Mr. Terry charged Nowak had been lured from the Giants camp by Cleveland club officials.

Well, Frank Kohlbecker, traveling secretary of the Cleveland club who said he put Nowak on the train last night after seeing the judge's telegram, announced: "That settles it for the time being."

Nowak's stop-off at Baton Rouge was regarded as a social thing—for some tea and crumpets with Mr. Terry—before continuing on to Jersey City team at Lafayette, La.

Changes Planned In State Cage Tourney; Youngstown May Send Teams To Finals

Coaches In Steel City Area Want Their Tournament As a Two-Week Affair With Winner and Runner-Up Going To Columbus

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, March 11.—H. R. Townsend, state High school athletic commissioner, predicted today that radical changes would be made in the Ohio scholastic basketball tournament setup for next year as the "result of situations which arose this season."

Among the probable changes listed by the athletic chief were:

1.—That teams would be "seeded" in all sectional and district tournaments, but that the selective draw now in effect for the state meet would be retained.

2.—That the nontheatrical setup would be juggled a bit, so that three district tournaments in Class A, instead of one as at present, would send representatives to the state tourney.

3.—That the southwestern district tournament would be sent back to Cincinnati from Oxford, where it was held this year.

Townsend said he expected some protests from coaches on the plan to seed teams in the sectional and district meets, but he predicted the state board of control would make the change to assure the better teams a chance to win their way through to the finals.

Most of the agitation for a change in the northeastern Ohio setup has come from the coaches in the Youngstown area, who object to playing a sectional event in Youngstown for the privilege of sending six survivors to the district meet at Akron, where the games are played on the Akron Goodyear floor.

The Youngstown coaches want their 19-team sectional tournament played as a two-week affair, with the winner and runner-up going to the state tournament.

Townsend said he was ready to advance such a move, but that the first recommendation for a change was up to the district board.

The commissioner said that should the setup be changed, two teams would be sent to the state meet from Youngstown, two from another tournament at Akron, and the fifth from a third meet made up of the teams which now compete in the sectionals at Geneva and Euclid.

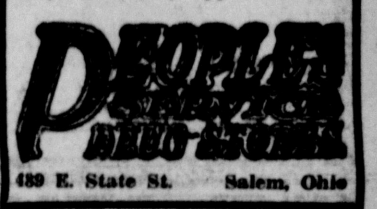

Should the Class A plan be changed to permit the playing of three district meets, the Class B

"Women In Love" by May Christie

CHAPTER XXVIII
"You—look terribly serious. Is anything the matter?" Ann stammered.

"I'm afraid so. You were wanted yesterday afternoon by Mr. Weiss in his office."

She thought: "Calamities never come singly! As though it weren't bad enough about poor Claire!" She said aloud: "I had to go home on an urgent family matter. Sudden illness." She hated fibbing, but never must Paul Bradley know Claire's narrow escape. Whatever trouble might be brewing for herself, her family must be protected, cost what it might.

"Did you know," asked Paul, "that our competitors are offering, at a much lower price, the identical line of lingerie that you purchased through O'Hallahan. That it's selling hand over fist, while you're stuck with your consignment?"

"I know that special line hasn't been doing well in my department this past ten days, but the reason was beyond me," replied Ann. "The silk's worth the money—the lace and embroideries likewise—and the cut's excellent. It's news to me that a rival store has it at reduced prices. Perhaps a sale."

"No."

"Then why?" She broke off. Why was she staring at her so, with accusation in his eyes?

"You've been favoring O'Hallahan to the exclusion of other textile manufacturers. That's bad policy. It lays one open to criticism."

"I'm terribly sorry. I bought from him because I considered I got the best value from him for the store."

"And now you're stuck with goods you can't get rid of. Mr. Weiss is very much upset about it, especially as we've given such space to this line in the advertising—fruitless lay-outs and all."

"What can I do?" asked Ann helplessly. "Shall I offer the salesgirls a commission? Take a markdown? Or what?"

"The rent of your department is far from being negligible, appraised as it is at so much per square footage. It occupies a considerable area in the best location in the store. You have extra lights as in this salon, which make expenses higher. Recently, too, some of the other buyers have been feeling that you have been favored in the matter of space in the advertising. Therefore, legitimately your running schedule has no margin for costly mark-downs—or for shop-lifting," he added.

Now Ann already knew there was a certain margin for stealing in the store. Despite the detectives and their vigilance, merchandise sometimes failed to tally in the various departments, and losses of that sort were put down to shop-lifters. But she had never experienced it in the Lingerie section.

"Shop-lifting?" she echoed.

He said, almost irritably: "Oh, I know you haven't had troubles yet in the matter of theft." He was thinking of Brenda Seiz in the Gift Shop, and how she was continually complaining things were being stolen. Much of her more expensive ware were small enough to be accidentally (?) caught in a cuff sleeve, to be slipped into a glove opening or covered with a handkerchief. The worries of a merchandise manager are as the sands of the Sahara. And he was worried, this morning.

"So Mr. Weiss wants to see me? Is he here now? Shall I go right up to his office?" asked Ann.

"He isn't in yet. He'll send for you when he wants you. I came to prepare you for an interview that maybe—unpleasant. He was almost choleric yesterday about what he considers is an inexcusable blunder on your part. In fact," said the merchandise manager worriedly, "it's only fair to tell you he was quite prepared to let you out yesterday. I had a talk with him, however. Not that it apparently has had much result."

Ann's quiet dignity did not desert her in this situation, even though the whole world seemed to be toppling about her ears. To be fired from the job that meant so much to her and to her family! Worse still, to lose contact with the man who had told her that he loved her—whom she loved achingly—and who now was treating her as though nothing beyond the ordinary civilities of store life had ever passed between them. It was as though he had a dual personality. But pride helped her. She summoned it forcefully.

Where a weaker or more designing character would have traded—or attempted trading—on their more delicate relationship outside the store, Ann's manner was completely business-like, detached, as she told the merchandise manager that certainly she would resign if her services were no longer wanted.

"Don't do that." The first human gleam came into the fine eyes. "Mr. Weiss is temperamental. He gets exaggerated notions in his head as to the reasons motivating his executives. In moments of anger, or of worry, his imagination flies off at a tangent. His suspicions run ahead of him."

This was cryptic information. Exactly what was he trying to convey to her?

She was suspected of something over and above being an incompetent buyer! He was skirting round it, hesitating to come out in the open.

Why? Because of his feeling for her? Or because of the transient emotion that a flirtation with a pretty girl had brought out?

Ann felt that she hated everybody. Specially loathed Paul Bradley at that moment. His maxim as to business and love not mixing came back to her forcibly.

"If Mr. Weiss will have the courtesy to tell me what he actually suspects me of, then I shall have an opportunity to clear myself," said Ann. She couldn't resist adding, because she was so hurt that everything churned inside her: "Not that women usually get a square deal from men if trouble has to be put on someone or other."

"Is that fair?"

"Is life fair to women?" Ann asked hotly.

"It's their own fault if it isn't," retorted Paul Bradley.

He was thinking of what Herman Weiss had told him yesterday, about Ann being in a box at the Opera with Tim O'Hallahan. How she had fooled him, pulled the wool over his eyes, assuring him that she declined Tim's invitation, and the very next night, after his declaration in the taxicab, flaunted herself in public with Tim!

"Meaning," asked Ann icily, and quite forgetting their respective positions, "that women are unreliable, and totally unable to meet men on their own ground?"

"Yes—since you're asking for it. That's my personal opinion."

They glared at one another. "That's too utterly absurd! You know perfectly that the sheltered woman is quite out of date," Ann retorted.

And a good riddance too, for the world no longer offers a shelter for women. Even when she marries, what guarantee has any girl today that she's going to be supported or protected? She's simply got to stand on her own feet."

"But she doesn't. She uses other weapons. Plays with fire like a baby, and then yells if she's burned."

What was he driving at? Should she ask him outright? But hadn't she scathingly said that the greatest fault of women was in turning the story to their own personal angle?

Yet she couldn't resist it. "With which particular fire am I concerned, pray?"

"I should advise you to find out and stop playing with it. Otherwise—well—a fire has a way of destroying one."

Was it a threat? She hadn't played with him. She had been in dead earnest. He must know that. Rameses, the window-dresser, appeared at the door of the salon, asking Mr. Bradley and the Lingerie buyer please come for a preview of his handiwork.

But, shaking his head, the merchandise manager strode out to the main floor and the elevators, and so up to his own office.

It was a terrible morning for Ann.

The axe was hanging . . . was liable to fall at any moment . . . but, infinitely worse than the loss of a job she valued, was the detached, cold attitude of one she had trusted implicitly, believed every word of love he had spoken.

If this change of demeanor towards her were prompted by her error of judgment in buying, then surely it was inordinately harsh! Unjustified!

No one was infallible, least of all a girl who had never done a lucra tive hand's turn in her brief existence until her entry less than five months ago into the store.

Not that Ann pitied herself, or asked for any lenience not accorded her.

the other workers. To be summarily condemned for what in her own mind was no blunder, was cruelly harsh on the part of the store owner and his manager.

Paul Bradley, when she had put the question to him in a spirit of sarcasm, had admitted that he considered women unreliable in business, and unable to meet men on their own ground.

It made her furious. He was narrow-minded. It wasn't love she had felt for him in the moonlight, after II Rococo it was only horrid old Mother Nature working . . . his good looks and propinquity . . . that was all.

The fleeting suspicion that he was jealous of Tim O'Hallahan at Rosalind's party had gone from her mind. His recent, coldly spoken rebuke ante the manufacturer being unduly favored with orders from her came from a business man—her boss, and not her lover. It had no hint of the personal.

How could she know that she had been seen at the Opera with Tim O'Hallahan by the Gift Shop buyer? Her mother's chaperonage was omitted from the story which had been retailed to Herman Weiss?

Nor had Herman's version of her intimacy with the silk manufacturer lacked anything, imaginatively speaking, when yesterday he had summoned the merchandise manager to his office. Herman could insinuate so skillfully that, no matter how one hated his innuendoes, some of the mud stuck. Not only for business reasons, but because of family reasons, the store owner had it in for Ann.

First, there had been the question of her sister excluding his daughters from the fashionable card-party, when already they'd invited old acquaintances. Mother and the girls were still yapping about it. And hadn't he lowered his dignity by appealing to the hotel management, who told him there was nothing they could do about it? And the old acquaintances had had the last laugh.

Next, there was Tim O'Hallahan's defection in regard to Becky, his favorite child. Ann Delafield was responsible. She was taking graft, feathering her own nest. Speaking of nests, there might even be a love-nest in the offing! This was why the fickle Irishman came seldom now to the palatial Weiss suite!

Not outright did Herman unfold these suspicions to Paul.

But enough was said to shake his trust in Ann Delafield. She had lied to him about refusing invitations.

Fooled him over Tim O'Hallahan. That was certain.

Yet feeling died hard. "I have found her extremely competent and hard-working. Up to now, she has been a most capable buyer," he had told Mr. Weiss.

"Humph!"—incredulously. "I grant you that her rise has been a rapid one, but I felt I was justified in the promotion."

"Oh, I know you're all for the buyers being young," conceded Herman. He chewed on the end of his cigar. "In my day, we considered that only the years brought experience. Now Miss Seiz of the Gift Shop—she's wide awake—no child."

"He looked at Paul. Ought he to let him know that it was through her loyalty he had the goods on the young Lingerie buyer? Or would that be a tactical mistake?"
